THE Administration
of Estates!

There is no more sacred duty than that which devolves upon man, than the custody of money not his own. When, by reason of ill health or old age, men find it impossible to properly manage their valuable interests, and thereby to protect those whom they must leave behind them, it becomes necessary for them to seek another, who, representing them, can safely be entrusted with their property, and who will conscientiously inspect their wishes and anxieties.

HATS TO BE SMALLER

Millinery Salesmen Gather to Dictate the Styles.

Indianapolis, June 28.—Small hats—small in size if not in price—will be the rule in women's headgear for next winter according to delegates attending the millinery traveling men's national convention, which opened here today. The salesmen, however, are not taking any chances on the small size of hats and adopted resolutions protesting against the proposal of railway companies to limit the size of trunks to 45 inches in height.

The association has a membership of 700 with fourteen posts located in the middle Western states. There are 250 delegates here.

Paymaster on Battleship Georgia Helps Himself and Then Takes French Leave.

Washington.—The navy department is trying very hard at present to discover the whereabouts of "A. W. Carmichael," the man who recently blew into Atlanta, Ga., and astounded every one by his reckless display of money. He flashed $500 and $1,000 bills as if they were one or two dollar silver certificates. He remained in Atlanta about a week, but no one ever lived any higher there than he did. He finally left with a pretty manicurist, who had taken his fancy.

He had not been gone long, however, before queries from the navy department about him began to arrive in Atlanta. Then the news came out.

He Left With a Pretty Manicurist.

By means of the numbers of certain of his bills, Mr. "Carmichael" was declared to be none other than Edward W. Lee, the paymaster of the battleship Georgia, who stuck $45,000 of the ship's money in a satchel and took French leave. Officers have been combing the eastern part of the country for him, but he has succeeded in eluding arrest.

BUILT OF HANDSOME GRANITE

Aberdeen, Chief City of the Highlands, Is Really Beautiful and Excellently Paved.

"Aberdeen," says Mr. Wilson, "is the chief city of the highlands and the third in size and commercial importance in Scotland. It has 170,000 inhabitants and is really a place of marked beauty. Every home in it and every public building or commercial structure is of the native rock, the town being situated in the midst of granite quarries and being the center of the stone industry in Great Britain. The colors are gray and a beautiful pink, and the Aberdeen granite is shipped to all parts of the world. It is also the world's greatest fish market, the daily catch brought there by the fishermen who scour the seas with their trawl nets for hundreds of miles in every direction, amounting to thousands of tons.

"Having plenty of material right at hand Aberdeen is one of the best-paved cities in Europe, and Union street is one of the most noted urban highways in the United Kingdom, imposing in width, and its paving exciting the admiration of every visitor. All the Scotch roads are good and that is one reason our country is highly prized by automobilists."

FIRST CARICATURE OF BONEY

It Was Produced When Napoleon Was Yet at the Military Academy at Brienne.

Napoleon in caricature is one of the most prolific of subjects. Indeed European political caricature from 1798 until 1815 may be said to have been Napoleon. Although in France this form of pictorial art was rigidly suppressed, Gillray and Rowlandson in England and a score of artists in Germany and Austria were depicting the great emperor as the most infamous of monsters.

The first known caricature of Bonaparte was drawn years before the first consulate, when the Bourbons still sat upon the throne of France. It is reproduced in Norwood Young's "The Growth of Napoleon." Young Bonaparte's years at the military academy at Brienne were not happy ones. He was a Corsican, and at that time Corsica was a recently conquered province.

The cartoon, which was drawn by a schoolmate, represents the future emperor standing, a severe and determined look upon his face, with both hands on the top of a musket, resting the butt on the ground. A smaller figure behind him, an old man whose nose nearly reaches his chin, is pulling him back by his wig.

Napoleon's feet face in two directions—one forward, the other backward. Underneath is written: "Bonaparte rushes to the aid of Paoli to rescue him from the hand of his enemies." These words have been struck through with a pen, which has also been drawn across the face of Napoleon.—The Bookman.

NAPOLEON III. AT SEDAN

Zola's Story That He Rouged His Cheeks Before the Battle Is Absolutely Denied.

The author of "The Empress Eugenie, 1870-1910," writes: In Miscellany (April 10) you refer to "the story that Napoleon III., pale and haggard with illness, rouged his cheeks before the battle of Sedan, to make a fine and encouraging appearance before the troops," and Zola's description of the emperor on that fatal day is cited from the powerful "Debauche" in support of the "story." Allow me to say that, if the evidence of some who were with the emperor on the day of the battle is deemed worthy of consideration (and personally I have no doubt about it), Zola was entirely wrong. By his own account, he composed his marvelous narrative from hearsay. He had not the advantage, as I had, of being on the battlefield (with the Germans) from early morning until nightfall.

Some five years ago the question "Was the emperor's face rouged at the battle of Sedan?" was very fully discussed in the Paris papers, and the late Paul de Cassagnac and the still living Robert Mitchell (who were with the emperor during the fighting) were among other eye-witnesses who gave an absolute denial to Zola's assertion. Others testify to the same effect. Princess Mathilde, the emperor's cousin, scouted the idea that Napoleon was rouged, although as she was not at Sedan her evidence is not of much account. On other points I can personally confirm Zola's picture of the horrors of the battlefield of the first of September, 1870.

What He Needed.

Upon the floor lay the glittering sovereign. The shopman was busy at the counter. No one else was by.

Quivering with excitement, Jimmy Slant dropped his glove upon the spot and then casually stooped to gather up his fallen gauntlet. But his hand was trembling so violently that he fumbled, missed the coin and rose with the glove alone clasped in his digits.

He dropped his glove again. He stooped again. He failed again.

As he was about to make his third effort to pick up the elusive gold piece the voice of the shopman sounded above him.

"May I sell you a bottle of this, sir?"

"Er—what is it?" inquired Slant, with his eye upon his glove.

"Liquid glue, sir," replied the shopman, blandly. "It sticks."

The Pancake.

The pancake is a distinctly American institution. It is eaten only in secret in our best families.

It would be eaten openly and above-board were it not that folk of the upper circles have to maintain their dignity before the servants.

Properly made, the pancake is a thing of beauty and a joy for the time being.

Improperly made, as it usually is, it is a blight upon life and a harassment to the stomach. A wrongly prepared pancake can stay with you longer than the after effects of pneumonia.

If our girls were taught how to make pancakes civilization would go forward so rapidly that those who are now trying to reform our social structure would be back numbers by day after tomorrow.

VOICE IS RESTORED
AS FRIENDS PRAY

Religious Revival in South Carolina Scene of Remarkable Episode.

SHOUTS IN JOY AND SINGS

Speechless for Three Years Man Finds Voice Suddenly Restored—Men Make Affidavit to Strange Cure at Baptist Revival Services.

Charleston, S. C.—Thomas Drayton Poore of Oconee county, who gradually lost his voice and had not been able to utter an articulate sound for three years, has recovered in an instant, it is said, the full power of speech while hundreds looked on and prayed.

Poore is a well-to-do planter and real estate operator. He has been for many years a leading member of the Baptist church in Westminster, and his word, his neighbors unite in saying, is thoroughly trustworthy.

Mr. Poore early in 1908 began to be troubled with nervous symptoms. They rapidly progressed, and in February of that year his voice began to fail. He had been a public speaker, and for many years had been accustomed to sing in the church, his tones being unusually strong and clear. None of the physicians summoned was able to stop the malady, which it was decided was due to a rare type of nervous indigestion.

By December, 1908, Mr. Poore's voice was so nearly gone that on the 18th of that month he could no longer even whisper. A day or so later even the medical attendants gave the case up as hopeless.

Several weeks ago revival services were inaugurated in the Westminster Baptist church under the leadership of the Rev. S. E. Stephens, a returned missionary. The meetings proved full of religious fervor from the start, and soon the community was in the midst of an old-fashioned "awakening."

Poore was a steady attendant at the services and several times he asked in writing that his brethren and sisters in the church pray that he might have his voice restored. Finally there came a night when the excitement at the revival seemed to be less than usual, there was not, at least so much loud singing and praying, though it is said it was remarked at the time there was deeper and more intense feeling than before.

The revivalist requested those present to send to him, written out on slips of paper, the things they most urgently desired.

"It may be the will of Providence to restore your speech to you at this time," said an elder of the church to Poore.

The latter accordingly wrote out a request to that effect and passed it up to the pastor. At the same time he made known the substance of his message to those around him and all joined with the minister in praying in his behalf.

Then there was a brief interval of silent prayer, on the part of the entire audience. Everything was still in the church when Planter Poore stood up, gave a shout of joy and began to sing. The others in the church stared in wonder, then in awe. Then, with one accord, they rose and joined Poore in singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

Those who were there say the congregation nearly went wild with excitement, some of them running out with the cry "a miracle! a miracle!" Poore ran to the pulpit and poured out his thanks for the restoration of his voice.

The news spread and by the next morning people were flocking into Westminster from pretty much all over Oconee county. Affidavits telling of the circumstances under which the planter found his voice have been made and are now a part of the public records.

CHASED BY PACK OF FIERCE WOLVES

COLORADO RANCHER HAS EXCITING EXPERIENCE WITH VICIOUS ANIMALS.

Tie Siding, Wyo.—Chased by a pack of hungry, vicious wolves down through Cedar canyon, and saved by the presence of a homesteader with a good team of horses, was the experience of Al Hinton, a rancher living just across the state line in Colorado. Hinton's arms, legs and body bear the marks of the animals' fangs, and he is confined to his bed under the care of a surgeon.

Hinton was out searching for a bunch of cattle which had strayed into the mountains. He carried a double-barreled shotgun, but had only one round of ammunition.

"Late in the afternoon," he says, "I gave up and turned back. I had gone but a short distance when I heard the howling of wolves. I hurried through the underbrush, but the pack gained on me. I turned and fired, when they came in sight, and killed the leader. But this did not stop them, and after a sprint of another 100 yards or so I fired again, killing two of the beasts.

"This stopped them for a few minutes. I don't know whether or not they ate the dead ones, but it was only a few minutes until they were after me again.

"Once they got so close that I brained one wolf with the club end of my gun.

"I was almost exhausted when I reached the end of the canyon and ran out into the prairie. And there, a short distance away, was a man in a buggy drawn by two horses. I yelled. He waited. I jumped in just as the wolf pack broke from the woods.

"We drove as rapidly as the horses could travel, but the wolves soon caught up with us. They were snapping and biting at the horses. The homesteader had been to town and had a quarter of beef in his buggy. We threw this to the wolves and they stopped to devour it. While they did so we made good our escape."

The stock of Hinton's gun is battered and broken from the clubbing given the wolves in his fight to escape.

Ruef's ability as a teacher of the Bible has been heralded around the prison with such rapidity that he has received an invitation to deliver a series of sermons in the prison chapel.

May Teach Office Hygiene.

New York.—A school of "office hygiene" is a novel feature offered to business men by the New Union hospital. It will undertake to direct business and professional men, educators and ministers as to sanitary conditions under which they should work and the length of time they and their employees should work each day and each year to make the most of their time, abilities and health.

"STICK" WAS BIG BLACKSNAKE

Writer Tells of His Narrow Escape From the Deadly Reptile of the Australian Bush.

The blacksnake is the danger of the Australian bush, and a deadly reptile he is, whose bite will kill any one in about eight minutes. Yet, notwithstanding all the warnings I was given, I never could remember to be on the lookout for snakes nor to avoid doing such foolish things as sitting on old dead tree trunks, which are their favorite hiding places.

I had just fired two barrels at a rabbit when just in front of me I saw a long, gnarled, black stick, a charred branch of a dead gum, as I thought. Another moment I should carelessly have stepped either across or on it, when one of the ladies of the party, who was walking with us, seized my arm and pulled me backward, calling out in a voice of terror: "Take care, it's a snake!" Roused by her voice, my "stick" woke up and a long blacksnake wriggled away in front of us. The snake had got to its hole, but my rescuer gallantly belabored it with her stick, while my other companion rushed up and blew the tail off at a shot. Then one of the men dashed away for a spade, with which it was dug out, when we loosed both our 28 bores to make sure of killing it. It was a big snake and measured well over three feet. We were far more pleased with our one blacksnake than if we had shot a hundred rabbits.—Westminster Gazette.

MEASURES 100,000TH OF INCH

New Apparatus of English Invention That Will Determine Extremely Minute Distances.

The extreme delicacy of scientific measurement is shown by an apparatus of English invention for comparing official standards of length. Its action depends upon the interference of light waves, causing shadow bands, the width of which is half the wave length of the light employed.

The red radiation from hydrogen or cadmium is used, and its wave length is, say, the 50-1,000th of an inch. The machine carries two microscopes, one of which is attached to one of the glass plates reflecting the light and producing the interference bands.

First, the recognized standard rod—say the imperial standard yard—is placed under the two microscopes, and one of its terminal marks is brought under the spider lines of each. Then the rod to be tested is substituted, and one of its terminals is accurately adjusted.

If it varies from the length of the standard, the other microscope, carrying the reflector, must be shifted until coincidence is obtained. The number of bands that move past during the shifting, multiplied by the half wave-lengths of the light, gives the difference in length of the rods.—Scientific American.

Not Beautiful to Modern Eyes.

The famous beauties of the world are wise when they leave no portraits of themselves, says a writer. Take Marguerite de Valois. She was an immoral, dishonorable, criminal, scheming, unscrupulous, villainous, but she was dowered with such charm that there was not a jaller or an enemy she could not charm if she tried. No, nor a woman—even the wives of her lovers. Men came from every country, taking year-long journeys, only to see her, and went away after a little glimpse saying they had "seen loveliness itself." Then one sees her portraits. Too much forehead, not enough eyebrow; a straight nose and expressive mouth (in one picture a lovely mouth)—and that is all. Mary Queen of Scots was lovely—three kingdoms battled because of her beauty—and yet her pictures leave one cold. Fouché said her portrait showed every trait of the lowest criminal type. That was before he knew whose picture he criticised.

Ancient "Remedies."

Some of the sufferers from coughs and colds may feel disposed to try one of the remedies recommended by Pliny. These include wolf's liver dissolved in hot wine, honey mixed with the gall of a bear and powders made from rabbit skins and bullock's horns burned and pounded together. Should one's ills resist these simple remedies for a cough he might try wrapping any of his fingers in the skin of a freshly killed dog. Tree frogs, too, are excellent for all forms of catarrh. Place one in the mouth for a minute, and when he makes his escape the sufferer is cured. No harm is done to the frog. For a cold in the head Pliny prescribes a simple yet infallible remedy—three kisses on the mouth of a mule.

Napoleon in the Sepulcher.

When, after the Battle of Jena, Napoleon invaded Prussia, he visited Potsdam, which contains the mortal remains of the Prussian kings. The sepulcher of Frederick the Great occupied a prominent site in the mausoleum. When entering the latter, Napoleon uncovered his head, and went directly up to the sarcophagus of the noted warrior.

For a moment the conqueror stood still, seemingly absorbed in deep thought. Then with the forefinger of his right hand he wrote the word "Napoleon" in the dust of the huge stone casket, and turning to his marshals said:

"Gentlemen, if he were living I would not be here."—Youth's Companion.

Many women are completely worn out and discouraged on account of some womanly trouble. Are you? Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Its record shows that it will help you. Why wait? Try it today. HOW PARIS REPORTERS WRITE

Specimens of What the English Call Journalists Cull from the French Newspapers.

"Litterature" is the agreeable name coined by M. Adrien Valvy, humorist-ordinary to the Gaulois, for what in English is called "journalism," and he quotes a few good specimens of "litterature." "This man, wrapped in the dread but necessary mantle of social justice, seemed at the moment truly a pillar of society, as in the picture graven by the philosopher's burning pen," wrote a picturesque reporter. He was describing an execution, and the pillar of society was the executioner. Another, or perhaps the same, reporter went to Asnières on a cold day.

"Ah! the cold that morning in the streets of Asnières! Along the pavement the water lay, still numbed with the cold. At street corner, where the wind whistled more bitingly, were spread large splashes of ice. By the Seine it was terrible. With a steamer of smoke like the white feather of Henri IV's helm rising from its roof, the Felicite crossed the river. The Felicite! Ah, what a warm and comfortable name was the ferry boat."

Here is the graceful picture:
"It was after lunch! The hour of toasts was long since past. Mme. G. rose. She laughed. 'Ladies and gentlemen, I have an idea,' she said, and laughed again. She bent her forehead, upon which blond curls played, and lifted it, laughing again. It amused her to be making a speech."

M. Vely warrants that all these specimens are authentic.—Paris Correspondent London Telegraph.

THOSE FAMILIAR PHRASES

Expressions That Are Nearly Always to Be Found in Novels Written by Women.

Faces are "proud;" and ladies with an imperfect nose have "a pure, proud, lovely woman's face, with glorious soul-lit eyes." Heroines are "slight." Chairs, on the other hand, are "deep;" and after the accident of a sprained ankle you "almost carry Elsie's slight figure to a deep chair."

In the important matter of costume, emotional dresses are worn, and virginal thoughts go with white frocks. "Clinging white draperies" are essential to the heroine and "colors" are not worn.

Eyes are extremely significant. The heroines have "glorious dark-blue soul-lit womanly eyes." Ladies of a villainous type, on the other hand, are recognizable by their "green eyes." On encountering at a country house eyes "scintillating like emeralds," a bachelor should dispatch a telegram summoning himself to the deathbed of "his grand-aunt, Barbara Batley." In "Chapter 34 Green Eyes are 'unmasked.'" Heroines with "pansy eyes," ladies with orbs "misty with unshed tears," are delicate and unlike anything on earth. Though they have shortened their hair and lengthened their skirts, "as yet no thought of love has entered their bright young lives," and "all that seemed too far away from their young glorious

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

MANY VARIETIES OF PALMS

Some Interesting Facts About the Widely Differing Members of This Tree Family.

In general palms are erect, unbranched trees with buttressed bases. Many attain heights of 100 feet and at their summits they bear a rosette of large leaves, each resembling a large fan in some kinds and a feather in others. In some species the fan-like leaves exceed 40 feet in length and six feet in breadth; the leaves resembling feathers are twenty feet by four or more, without division. Some species are low growing, even creeping; others are slender stemmed plants which climb by means of hooked spines; some have flexible stems which extend from tree to tree in festoons and attain several hundred feet, 500 being common, and some writers place the length at 1,500 and even more. In the ordinary species the flowers are borne in huge clusters. The fruits are mostly berries and drupes. They are enclosed in a fibrous husk and frequently contain a hard nut. The flowers, which are generally small, bear no relation in size to the fruit, which may be as small as a pea or, as in the double coconut, larger than a man's head.

THE BOY ON THE FARM.

There is the making of a good man in the boy on the farm, but he can be irretrievably spoiled in the making, if too much is put upon him; if his shoulders are loaded with blame for everything that goes wrong indoors and out; if everybody feels privileged to give him orders, and if he is regarded as a mere machine without muscles to tire, sensibilities to wound, intellect to stimulate, or a soul to inspire with longings for better things. Those into whose hands are committed these youths ordained to eat their bread in the sweat of their face, have a responsibility above that of merely providing food, shelter and clothing.

FORGOT HER SECOND WEDDING

Woman Signed Her First Married Name to Bank Check and Much Trouble Resulted.

"I lost my identity once for the time being after I was married to my second husband," said a woman who formerly lived in New York city, and who now dwells in a New England town. "Soon after my second marriage," she added, "I withdrew my personal funds from a New York bank and deposited the money in the town where I now live, giving my present name, of course, and leaving my signature, I had no occasion to draw against the deposit for nearly two months, and when I did so I signed my first married name to the check. The person to whom I gave the check did not know I was married to my present husband, as the transaction was one that did not require any mention of my second marriage."

"When the check was sent to my bank in the town where I live it was returned, marked 'No funds.' The check was forwarded to me by the person to whom I gave it, and it was addressed to me as I had signed it. One of the curious things in connection with it was that my present husband is a director of the bank, but, of course, the cashier never thought to ask him, although the bank official knew my other married name. It is the sort of mistake that a woman makes only once."

TWO RATHER BRIGHT DOGS

One Recognized the Letter Was Over Weight and the Other Perceived Wrong Address.

Two suburbanites, one living near Morton and the other near Primos, were swapping stories of country life as they went home on the 5:35 train.

"I have a most intelligent dog," said the Primos man. "I just hand him a letter and say: 'There, Spot!' and off he goes to the post office. I gave him one yesterday and he dropped it. He refused to pick it up, but wagged his tail instead. I suspected something was wrong and picked up the letter and weighed it. It required two cents more postage."

Without the least show of surprise the man from Morton proceeded with his story.

"Dogs are intelligent," he began. "My collie, Carlo, always posts my letters, and one day he, like your dog, dropped a letter on the floor. I thought possibly one stamp was not enough, but in weighing the letter I found that the postage was all right. I gave it back to Carlo, but he let it fall again to the floor. I inspected the letter carefully and found that it was addressed to South Penn square, New York, instead of to Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Times.

Build an Altar for All.

There was a flat-topped rock covered with stones, and as I was looking, a writer in the May Wide World says, several Somali women passed. Each one left the road and, selecting a stone, placed it on the heap. I inquired the reason of this. The Somali version is as follows: In the old days before the Somalis inhabited the country there was a very bad man. After a career of crime, the Prophet Ali, one of Mohammed's successors, pursued him and caught him up by the big rock. The bad man dodged Ali round the rock until the prophet, growing furious, drew his sword and split the rock clean in two, and the miscreant with it. In turning to go Ali's horse kicked, and the marks of his hoofs are shown in two round holes in the otherwise smooth stone. The split rock has just such an appearance, and from time immemorial it has been the custom for women passing to add a stone to the pile on the altar close by. The Somalis have many legends of the people who occupied the country before them, and talk of them as having been Persians.

Peace Wave Swept Ancient Egypt.

Until Cambyes with his Persian myriads swept across defeated Khem, and Phoenicia and Greece, adopting her stored-up wisdom, added thereto the graces of a more artistic ornamentation and aggressive commercial enterprise, Egypt led all nations in the arts of peace and the accumulation of wealth by peaceful trade. And while it is true that individual enterprise was largely hampered by the royal control of foreign trade, it must be remembered that the king acted largely as a trustee for his people and that the Egyptians under most of their sovereigns probably suffered less from plague and famine and were more justly ruled than most of their contemporaries.—"Nobility of the Trades—The Merchant," Charles Winslow Hall, in the National Magazine.

Delusions of the Ear.

There is a cure, it seems, for so-called delusions of the ear in deaf people who think they hear sounds like the whistling of wind, the rustling of leaves, the crackling noises of a telephone, thunder, organ pipes or shouting. Such sounds are remembered, says Doctor Marage, a French aurist, and are caused by persistent excitation of the auditory nerve centers.

He has invented an apparatus for studying these really inaudible but none the less tormenting noises, which are apt to take the form in time of a persistent delusion, and he has succeeded in relieving many sufferers by applications of electric alternating currents of very high frequency or by

FIRM'S SIGN WAS CHANGED

Bulky Lumber Dealer Gave Way to Son When Latter Passed Him in Weight.

"When I knew John Fliske," said a Westchester politician, "he was in the lumber business on the West side of New York city, with his son as a partner. Both were heavyweights and both had the same name. John, Sr., for years had scaled about 360 pounds. He was a mammoth man, being more than six feet tall, very wide and very deep chested. His son was constructed on similar lines, and they were styled by their intimates as the 'heavyweight firm.'"

"Father," remarked the son one day, "I rather think that I've been gaining on you lately and I wouldn't be surprised if I weighed more than you do now."

"Footish talk, my boy. I'll beat you by 100 pounds. You are heavy, but you are not in my class yet."

"Let's get on the scales and find out. What do you say?"

"Quite willing to submit to the test, they weighed. John, Sr., balanced the beam at exactly 362 pounds. John, Jr., scaled 365. Although astonished, John, Sr., merely said: 'I didn't think it, John, and you certainly don't look it, my boy.'"

"Separating the young man gave no more thought to the incident, but the next day he was further surprised. The firm's sign had been changed. Hitherto it had read 'John Fliske & Son,' but now the deposed heavyweight had transformed it to 'John Fliske & Father.'"

COULDN'T HEAR SCHOOL BELL

Fascinations of the Bright June Morning Made Boy Deaf to Call of Duty.

A big bumblebee lay helpless upon a plantain leaf under the morning glory vine—a sad example of the effects of too much intoxicating drink. He had imbibed honey freely all the day before and now, past eight o'clock of a bright June morning, when his fellows had been at work for hours, he sprawled, half paralyzed, a shocking sight to busy people.

I took a blade of grass and tickled him gently in his yellow plush region. He raised one leg—he was lying on his side—and waved it toward me in feeble protestation. The gesture spoke plainly. It said: "Lemme 'lone, can't yer. Jus' wanta have lil' nap."

A little nap! A little nap, indeed, on that morning when all the garden was rustling and humming and whirring and twittering with life. The robin, who was the father of a hungry family living in the apple tree, was hunting worms on the lawn; the portulacas had been open for half an hour—ever since the sun had touched them; the fat toad who lived near the yellow lilies was awake and looking about with slyly twinkling eyes (he had probably been up all night, too); and the morning glories had been unfolded since daylight. The school bell rang. But I did not hear it. A school bell on such a morning? No, I did not hear it.—The Outlook.

Disinfecting Theaters.

A committee of French doctors has been instructed to submit to the Paris police a scheme of regulations for minimizing the danger of the dissemination of infectious diseases at theatrical performances. It is proposed, in the first place, that every theater shall be disinfected after every performance by means of sawdust steeped in antiseptics. It also is recommended that windows and doors shall be kept wide open in the intervals between the performances, that the cushioned seats shall be sponged with antiseptics, that the cloak-room attendants shall undergo regular medical inspection, and finally that the air of the house shall be sterilized once a week by means of steam charged with formaldehyde. Pestiferous microbes certainly will need to be of a very hardy character to resist this drastic treatment.—Westminster Gazette.

Jewel Box Alarm.

Paris is now interested in my lady's jewel box with burglar alarm works in it. When the burglar picks up the box, or tampers with it, the thing gets busy with more noise than an alarm clock. Tip's advice to any lady who is warned by an alarm clock jewel box that a burglar is in the room with her is to refuse to be wakened by it and to interfere with his enterprise. Same advice to men. That device lets Mr. Burglar get too near before setting up its clanging clamor. The less fooling anybody does with burglars at close quarters the better. The kind of burglar alarm to recommend itself to people who think their lives are more valuable than precious stones would be one that would tell you the dark-lantern visitor was coming when he was five blocks away from your house.

Ants Plague English District.

An extraordinary plague of ants is causing alarm in the Durham, England, colliery village of Ryhope. One hundred and twenty miners' houses are infested with myriads of the pests, which swarm in the living rooms, causing serious discomfort and damage. The ants spread rapidly, and swarm about the cupboards and on the food in the houses. They are of a foreign species, and were brought to the village in consignments of Egyptian hay. The colliery owners have engaged experts to exterminate the pests. The infested houses are dealt with in turn, the ants being dug out in colonies and their nests destroyed.

PROUD TO TELL ABOUT CURES

Folks Who Have Been Sick Like to See Their Cases in Print, Says Doctor.

"Any doctor who cures a patient of an illness serious enough to be written up in a medical magazine has a right to feel proud of himself, but he isn't nearly so proud as the person he cured," said a doctor. "It actually looks as if seeing the history of their cases in print compensates some folks for being sick."

"Nearly everybody nowadays who has a pretty hard pull to get back to health asks me if I am not going to write up the case for publication. The mere suggestion that it is not interesting enough for copy nearly causes a relapse. As an incentive to recovery I have tried my literary skill on several cases that contained not one sensational feature from a scientific standpoint."

"The patients were pretty sick, of course, and thought they were going to die. Over and over I assured them that they had a straight attack of fever or stomach trouble without complications, but they were convinced I was only yapping it mildly to keep from scaring them to death. When, just to please them, I finally wrote a history of the illness they were so proud that they had the story printed in pamphlet form at their own expense."

NEW YORK STILL A FUR STATE.

That the reputation of the state of New York as a fur bearing district has not been entirely lost and that that reputation so far as Wayne county is concerned is still being kept up is shown by the fact that approximately $30,000 worth of furs were shipped to New York by one dealer during the fall of 1910 and so far during 1911.

Since the season opened last fall he has bought furs as follows: Fifty thousand muskrats, 10,000 skunks, 500 raccoons, 600 minks, 300 red foxes, 500 ermine, which make a total of over 60,000 skins. Undoubtedly this does not represent the entire catch, for there are probably other dealers.—Newark (N. Y.) Union-Gazette.

PRIMITIVE TELEGRAPHY.

An amusing story of reckoning by notches comes from Preston, England. The other day a North Country cattle dealer entered a telegraph office and handed a telegram which consisted, besides the address, of eight strokes. The clerk inquired if these were meant for figures. "Call them figures or whatever you like," said the sender, "so that they come out the same at the other end, and I'll tell you why. That telegram is going to my housekeeper. She can't read or write a word, but when the telegram reaches her she'll count the strokes, and understand that I shall be home at eight o'clock tonight."

PLEASANT COMPARISON.

"Bob" Davis, who is editor of Munsey's Magazine and the author of several plays, is the possessor of a sense of humor and a power of expression that is frequently picturesque. Speaking of a man who had achieved some distinction as a kill-joy said: "That fellow is a great athlete. He can throw a wet blanket 200 yards in any gathering."

For Radium Baths.
At St. Joachimsthal, Bohemia, where the Austrian government has its radium laboratory, a large bathing establishment is being erected for baths in the radio-active water taken from the pitchblende mine there.

Hard to Obtain Radium.
London's radium institute is finding it hard to obtain the five and one-half grams of radium needed in its equipment for therapeutic work. The firm which undertook to supply that amount is unable to live up to its contract. The institute is to open in October.

CLEANING DAY HINTS

USE A SOLUTION OF WASHING SODA ON TILED GRATES.

Wear Rubber Goloshes When Putting Down a Carpet—Paper Will Stick Over Whitewash if Skim Milk Is Put in the Paste.

To clean tiled grates, a strong solution of washing soda thickened to make a paste with fuller's earth is excellent. This will easily remove stains or grease, while it is equally efficient in the case of grease-spotted marble. The paste should be left on for an hour or two, and then washed off with a flannel dipped in a hot lather.

In putting down a carpet it is an excellent plan to slide a pair of goloshes over the shoes. The rubber enables the carpet to be drawn out and stretched by simply walking or pushing the carpet with the feet from the center to the corners.

In papering a room which has hitherto been whitewashed, it is not easy to make the paper adhere satisfactorily. The experiment should be tried of forming the paste with skim milk instead of water. The milk must, however, be carefully skimmed so that every drop of the cream has been removed, the whey of separated milk being the best for the purpose. The paste must be scalded well, and should on no account be too thick.

The best method of cleaning a mirror, whether new or antique, is that of rubbing it in the first instance with a sponge saturated with methylated spirits, and then sprinkling the surface of the glass with powdered indigo. If this is left for a few moments and then dusted off with a clean leather, a good polish should be obtained.

Larded Liver.

Cut half a pound of fat salt pork into lardoons and thrust them about half an inch apart into fresh calf's liver, so that they project on both sides. Put two tablespoons of butter into a saucepan with a small onion (minced), pepper and some sweet herbs, chopped, also a few spoonfuls of strained tomato juice. Cover closely and set in a frying pan of boiling water for one hour, keeping the outer pan full all the time and turning the liver twice. Then take out the saucepan and set over the fire, but cook slowly. When the liver is nicely browned below, turn it. At the end of 40 minutes boil up once sharply and for the first time. Take out the liver and keep hot. Add a little boiling water to the gravy, strain, thicken with browned flour and pour over the liver.

New Variety of Burglar.

Flatbush awoke the other morning to find, to its surprise, that there is one type of burglar which has never been branded and labeled. Heretofore it was supposed that a specimen of every form of burglar was on file at headquarters, but no record was found of the burglar who skins the silverware and cash and confines himself to cold cream, talcum powder and military brushes.—New York Herald.

NO WESTERN MAN FOR HER

New York Stenographer Objects to Employer Whose Business Day Begins Before Nine.

A New York office had advertised for stenographers, and when the applicants came they were interviewed by the assistant manager, who was a woman. An agreement almost had been closed with one bright girl when the assistant mentioned incidentally that the proprietor was a western man. Instantly the fair face of the applicant clouded. "In that case," she said firmly, "I do not wish the position. I am working for a western man now, and that is why I wish to make a change. Why, do you know?" her voice dropped to a low, tragic tone, as of one who voices hidden crime—"that man actually gets down to the office at six o'clock in the morning, and he expects us to be there at eight. Worse than that, even when we are on hand promptly at eight he acts as if it was about the middle of the day. Of course, it is easy for him, for it seems he gets up about four o'clock every morning, works a bit at home, reaches the office at six and piles up work for us until eight, so it really does seem late to him when we arrive. No more western men for me, thank you. Any little old New York man will do for me, for New York men don't try to begin office hours before nine or ten o'clock."

Snake-Killing Birds.

In South Africa it is to be found the champion snake killer of the bird family. It is known as the secretary-bird.

The name seems an odd one, but the bird received its name from a crest or tuft of plumage rising from the back of its head, which reminds one of a secretary or bookkeeper with a bunch of quills stuck behind his ear.

As a rule it attacks smaller snakes in preference to the very powerful ones, and in doing so uses every precaution against contact with the poisonous fangs or strong cells. It does not attack its prey suddenly, but, after walking round the spot occupied by the reptile, suddenly spreads its wings and gives the reptile a sudden but sharp blow on the head with its very hard and sharp talons. This is done so quickly that the reptile has no chance to resist.—Harper's Weekly.

The Dog's Mind.

I have a Skye terrier possessing what seems to me at least to be an extraordinary knowledge of time. On each day of the week, excepting Saturday, some scholars pass along a road at the back of my grounds, about 4 p. m., on their way home—about a mile distant. If the dog is out of doors he invariably joins them, accompanies them home, and returns. If he should happen to be indoors at the hour they pass, he sits at a window watching for them; and when they appear, he asks plainly and palpably to be let out. On Saturday, however, when the school is shut, as soon as the doors of my house are opened in the morning, he makes off for the children's cottage, and spends the week end with them, returning to me on Monday. And so it goes on for weeks.—The Scotsman.

GOOD DEFINITION.

The Girl—They tell me that I'm very tactful.
The Nanny—What is tact?
The Girl—The ability that a clever woman has to make her husband think that he's having his own way.

PREFERRED GOOSE FLESH.

Farmer Jenkins believed in the good old-fashioned idea of giving all the farm hands and laborers a real good feed at the festive season. So he determined to give them something to remember last year and ordered the feast to start with soup, to be followed by goose, roast beef and unlimited supplies of plum pudding.

The farm hands duly assembled, and having fasted all day, so as to be in good trim for the Christmas feed, were prepared to make the supplies look foolish. Roast goose and beer were all they expected.

"Ere, what's this 'ere?" said a disappointed, sturdy son of toll, when a huge plate of soup was placed before him. "You've forgotten the goose and stuffin'. I don't want all gravy!"—Judge.

Before and After.

When a girl is engaged to a man she believes him when he tells her he would love to have her walk on him with her tiny feet; after she is married to him she would be satisfied to have him willing to put her rubbers on her without acting as if it were killing him.

Independence Earned.

The independence and liberty you possess are the work of common dangers, sufferings and successes.—Washington.

British Consumption of Tobacco.
The people of Great Britain consume less tobacco a head than any other civilized people of the world.

Promptness and Efficiency in filling your Prescription is next of importance to the doctor's orders. Promptness means that we have the freshest and latest drugs right here in the compounding department and that there is no need for unnecessary waiting. Efficiency signifies that the very highest skill is used in filling your prescription. The combination of these two things is of the greatest consequence in that cure. Ask your doctor.

EARNING PIN MONEY

Novel and Interesting Method Adopted by Girl to Add to Spending Money.

SCRAP BOOK FOR DEBUTANTES

Systematically Clips Every Notice and Photograph of Season's Buds, Arranges Them in Book and Sells Them to the Subject of Clippings.

A girl with a home of her own, but not too much money, adds to her spending fund in a way that is novel and interesting. She watches the social columns of daily papers and magazines for the names of debutantes and debutantes-to-be.

Having picked out the names of the season's buds, she systematically clips every notice in which their names are mentioned. Photographs, accounts of parties given for or given by the debutante and her friends, even public functions that she attended, are collected.

At the end of the season these are artistically arranged in a loose-leafed book, and the home-made cover of water color paper is artistically illuminated with the name of the "bud" in question, the year of her coming out, and the title, "Ye Debutante: Her Book."

The compiler then writes a polite note to the subject of these clippings, and taking it with the book to the girl's house, sends it upstairs for inspection. She does not ask for an interview or make herself otherwise a nuisance. In the note she states the price of the collection, and says she will call for the book in course of half an hour.

As this is not half time to read up such unique press work, the sight of the debutante book is a sort of caviare preceding a purchase.

In most cases the girl finds a ready sale; but when the debutante herself is too poor or too penurious to buy her own book it is carried further to some doting aunt or grandmother, who is delighted at the concentrated notices of her idol.

Often the newspaper notoriety begins several seasons before a girl is out, with accounts of juvenile parties. Sometimes with families of importance, every mention of a daughter from babyhood is clipped and put in an envelope marked with the girl's name and address.

Such collections are so interesting that they are not hard to sell if well collected and pleasingly arranged. It might be possible to work on order—indeed, it is sometimes done—but the surprise feature of the finished collection is found to be the best lure.

In a smaller way the ingenious maker of a debutante book has various collections for the bride. The clippings date from the time the engagement is announced until after the first formal entertaining for the bride is over—usually at the end of the first season after her marriage.

The cost of such a collection is not great—merely the subscription to daily and weekly papers that specialize on society and to various periodicals that deal in portraits and personalities. As one paper may afford copy for a number of different debutantes, the cost is divided.

Reading of these papers must be careful and regular. It also is well to visit frequently the reading room of a public library and look over magazines and papers for which the compiler does not subscribe. If an important notice is found it is easy to purchase the magazine, or if they are not filed the librarian may be induced, when proper time has passed, to give you the notice you want from it.

The Gulf Stream.

The Gulf stream originates in the Atlantic equatorial current, which is composed of two arms, one issuing through the Florida strait from the Gulf of Mexico, the other running westward along the northern shore of Cuba. The united stream follows the Atlantic coast northeastward with a velocity of from two to five miles an hour, gradually expanding in breadth and diminishing in depth, but distinctly outlined for many degrees beyond the eastern edge of Newfoundland.

The comparative high temperature of the Gulf stream (10 to 20 degrees above the surrounding ocean), rapid motion and deep blue color make it one of the most remarkable of marine phenomena. It exerts a certain influence in modifying the climate of the British Isles, France and other parts of western Europe, but to what extent it would be difficult if not impossible to determine.

Spider Web Prophecy.

Some spiders are weather prophets. Perhaps some of you have noticed in the fields in a summer morning the grass covered with little cobwebs. Under each web there is a spider that comes out of a hole in the ground, and all the spiders are alike. When these webs are on the grass it is quite sure not to rain.

New in Electroplating.

To obviate the necessity of suspending metal articles that are to be electroplated in a bath a machine has been invented in which they are placed loosely in a cage, revolved in a bath by an electric motor.

BEFORE CIVIL SERVICE DAYS

Gross Ignorance of Some Old-Time Postmasters Revealed in Quarterly Report From One.

George S. Pauli, appointment clerk to the post-office department, said at a dinner in Washington:

"Our appointments are better, thanks to civil service reform, than they used to be. There used to be some pretty ignorant postmasters in the government's employ. Thus, in the archives of the department there are still preserved, I understand, a letter written in the first half of the last century, from a village postmaster who, learning that a quarterly report was expected of him, wrote to the president in these terms:

"Mr. President of the United States—Dear Sir: Bein' required by the instructions of the P. O. to report quarterly, I now fulfill that pleasant duty by reportin' as follows. To wit. The harvestin' has been goin' on purty well and most of the neighbors has got their cuttin' about done. Wheat is hardly an average crop on rollin' land. Corn is yallerish and won't cut more'n ten or twelve bushels to the acre. The health of the community is only tolerable, measles havin' broken out about two miles from here. There is a powerful awakenin' on the subject of religion in the neighborhood. Nancy Simpson, a near neighbor, gave birth to twins yesterday and one of them won't live. This is about all I have to report this present quarter."

MYSTIC NUMBER OF A KING

Nine Was Curiously Involved in the Life of Edward, Great Britain's Late Ruler.

It is a curious coincidence that nine was the mystic number of the late King Edward, and a correspondent of the New York Sun gives some extraordinary examples.

In the name of "Edward VII." there are six letters and three figures—six and three are nine. His mother, Queen Victoria, was born in 1819. She died in 1901. Her age was eighty-one—nine times nine are eighty-one. He was one of nine children. He was born on November 9. He was married in 1863—seven times nine are sixty-three. His wife, Alexandra, has nine letters in her name. She was a daughter of the ninth king of Denmark. King Edward came to the throne of England in his fifty-eighth year. He was crowned on August 9 and reigned nine years. He died at the age of sixty-nine. His funeral procession started at nine in the morning and was followed to the grave by nine kings. He won three Derbys—three times three are nine. There are nine letters in the name Persimmon, the first winner.

SOMETHING NEW NEEDED.

Congressman McCall of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor McClellan of New York, when the latter was in congress, were very close friends. They had both won distinction—and no doubt were drawn together on account of it—by the fact that they were often separated from their respective parties. McClellan was once styled the "leader of the McClellan Democracy," which consisted of himself, as he voted alone on several propositions. McCall not only voted against his party, but often put forth propositions which received only his solitary vote. On one occasion a motion he made received 17 votes besides his own.

"Something wrong with that," he remarked as he walked up the aisle. "I must get something else. There is no distinction in that kind of a vote."—The Sunday Magazine.

HAD TO PAY FOR IT.

Mrs. Bullock-Workman wanted to prove that she had climbed higher than Miss Annie Peck, so sent a celebrated Paris geographer to Mount Huasean to prove that it was not 7,300 meters high. It was found to be only 6,765 meters high, but the sequel is that the expedition to prove her statement cost Mrs. Bullock-Workman the tidy little sum of $13,000.

A GUARANTEE.

MARRIAGE IN CONGO REGION

How the Young African Native Courts and Weds His Dusky Ten-Dollar Bride.

A wife in the Congo region costs $10. This sum is paid to the parents of the girl or to the man who owns her as his slave. The girl seldom has any voice in the matter. Sometimes, however, the couple wishing to be married make their own bargain and then it is an interesting business. The young man seeks to meet the darling of his dreams. But how and where are the questions that worry and puzzle him. Often he takes refuge in the home of the evangelist and gets him to write a note for him. He then goes out, cuts a stick and splits it at the top, puts the letter in the split and hurries to get a carrier.

When it is delivered he stands around to see how it is received. If it is favorably received a nice pot of food is cooked and sent to him. The parties are then considered engaged. A man can have as many wives as he can buy. I saw one man, a king, who had 40. The marriage feast is a ceremonious affair with the heathen. If the groom is wealthy all of the drums, horns, bells, musicians and dancing masters are hired to do the bride honor. All of the luxuries of the tropics, according to the native ideas, are in evidence at the feast. I have known them to have a hundred pots of food at a single wedding supper.—Southern Workman.

NOT IMPORTANT

Lodger—How dared you lose my letter.
Landlady—Don't worry, I read it and it was not interesting.

POSSUM BREEDING.

Mr. Le Soeuf, curator of the Sydney Zoological gardens, has proposed the breeding of opossums in Queensland on systematic lines. The skin of these little furry animals has become so valuable that unless some protection is accorded possums may soon become extinct. Mr. Le Soeuf would select, he says, a site sheltered from the westerly winds, as possums like protection from the cold while they are feeding. They do not like to be disturbed, either, by the winds shaking the branches while feeding. The land should be fenced with six-foot galvanized iron to keep them from climbing or jumping over.

PROTECTION FOR REVELERS.

In Copenhagen, as in Amsterdam, provision is made for the safe conveyance home of inebriated revelers. When a policeman in the Danish capital finds an intoxicated man wandering at large he places him in a cab and takes him to the nearest police station, where he is examined by a doctor and then sent home in the cab. The following morning the bill for the doctor and the cab is sent to the publican who served the man with his last drink.

HIS WIFE WAS INVALUABLE

Tailor's Spouse Entertained Women Customers During Fittings so They Would Stand Naturally.

For a long time people wondered why the tailor's wife came into the shop as soon as a customer came in to try on a skirt and sat around telling funny stories till the fitting was over. One day the tailor explained.

"She does that to make women stand naturally," he said. "Unless something is going on to take their minds off themselves they strike a perfectly ridiculous attitude. Every few minutes I caution them to stand natural, but their self-consciousness won't let them. They throw their waist forward and their hips back until a skirt fitted the way they are then standing is about two inches too short in front and two inches too long in the back when they fall back into an every-day position. But just get a woman interested in something besides herself and she will forget to pose."

"My wife interests them. She can't sew and she can't fit, and for a long time I couldn't figure out what use I could put her in the shop, but finally I discovered that she has a mighty talent for story telling, and after I took to utilizing her one accomplishment alternations in skirts fell off 90 per cent."

"QUITE A HISTORIC SPOT"

American Woman Tourist Learns a Bit About the Ruins of the Roman Forum.

An American archaeologist with a great enthusiasm for the period of the Caesars was wandering about the Roman Forum one morning when a woman poked her head over the wall. "Hey!" she said in the familiar accent of western New York. "What place is this?"

"This is the ruins of the Forum," responded the archaeologist.

"And what might that be?" she asked.

Amused, but glad of a chance to induct a fresh mind into his hobby, the archaeologist explained. He waxed eloquent; he began at its foundation; he pictured the pageant after pageant of history, the successive armies and races that made that spot memorable. Finally he ran down for want of breath.

"My!" she said. "Quite a historic spot, isn't it?"—Success Magazine.

MENNONITES AND WATERMELON

The Mennonites have a decided preference for watermelons over every other "fruit." They call the melons "arboosen," though we would not be willing to certify that this is the correct spelling. The last detachment happened to arrive at Atchison one Saturday—market day—and among the first objects they saw were the big Kansas watermelons. They "went for them then and there," and felt that they had reached the "happy land of Canaan." Unless some other state can raise larger watermelons than Kansas—which some other state can't—the future Mennonite immigration will be directed hitherward.—Noble L. Prentiss, Kansas Miscellanies.

JOKED WITH JOKER.

A victim of street car pickpockets resolved to get even, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says. He put in his pocketbook nothing but a slip of paper on which was written: "This is where you lose, fellow!" Then he climbed into a pay-as-you-enter car and waited. Twenty minutes passed and nothing happened. Twenty more minutes flitted by. The sleuth left the car then, having assured himself that his purse was safe. He repaired to a safe place and looked things over. There was a slip of paper, just as he had wrapped it up. But when he opened it the thing had a new sentence on it. It said: "Ain't you the kiddier!"

ROYAL FLUSH IS DEATH OF WOMAN

Expires as She Wins Money Enough to Offset Loan to Sweetheart.

GIVES FIRM'S FUNDS TO MAN

Youth Disappears Soon After Borrowing From Girl and She Tries to Recoup Loss by Playing Cards for Stakes—Draws Royal Flush and Dies.

Chicago.—Just at the critical moment, when there was enough money in the pot to wipe out an indebtedness, incurred for her sweetheart, Miss Laura Cotton, as she was winning steadily in a poker game to retrieve the loss of the loan, drew a royal flush and dropped dead in her chair.

The other members of the poker party, shocked at the sudden climax of their evening's enjoyment, hurriedly called a physician, but Miss Cotton died before he arrived.

Miss Cotton, together with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Cotton, and J. Mann, a friend, had been playing cards all evening. In the early stages of the game the stakes were low and Miss Cotton held successful hands every deal. Determined to win enough money to repay her for a loss she had incurred by loaning money to her sweetheart, she raised the ante and still continued to be successful.

At eleven o'clock she had won half of the amount required. In the next deal the jackpot increased until it held more than enough to offset the loss of the loan. Miss Cotton was feverish with excitement. With her whole future seemingly staked on the hand she was about to draw, the strain proved too much and when a royal flush loomed into view she dropped over in a dead faint.

"Sometime ago my daughter was employed by the Equity Finance and Loan company," said Mr. Cotton. "During her employment there she became acquainted with a young man who paid her considerable attention. He called here frequently and in a short time a close friendship was formed.

"One day he told her he was in a very serious predicament, saying that he needed a considerable amount of money and didn't know where to get it. He asked her for a loan, saying he would repay it soon. My daughter did not have that much money, but told him she could get it from the firm."

"Knowing the young man so well and believing him to be perfectly honest, she complied with his request by taking some of the firm's money and giving it to him, never suspecting but that it would be returned soon."

Soon after she made the loan the man disappeared, leaving no message, and Miss Cotton was obliged to borrow the money to make good her shortage.

The firm never missed the money and she was never questioned, but from that time on, according to her father, she began to worry. She became nervous, her health failed and she left her position. Finally she became subject to fainting spells that resulted in her death.

Her father, who is employed by the Deering Harvester company, attributes the death of his daughter to the worry and distraction over the loan incident and the fainting spells which followed.

Thief Steals Time.

Berlin.—Munich has just been visited by a thief with a sense of humor. Several days ago all the clocks in the ministry of railways came to a standstill.

The central or master clock, which controls all the others, had been stolen.

In its place was a sheet of paper with the words: "Time was made for slaves."

Catches Coin in Mouth.

Dalton, Mass.—Charles Connors of Dalton wagged that he could catch in his mouth 12 half dollars tossed from a distance of ten feet.

He caught them all, but the twelfth slid down his throat. It was recovered in the hospital, but Connors had to pay $25 for the operation.

BOTH WERE MICHIGAN "MEN"

Story of Prominent Educator and Late in Teacher Whom He Found in Lonely Town.

A prominent educator tells this story to illustrate the pride which all collegians take in their own alma mater. He studied at a state university where coeducation was strongly rooted. For a Latin teacher he had a man famous for the success of his peculiar language method.

After I had been out of college a few years I became inspector of high schools for the state university in another state. In a lonely, out-of-the-way town I found a woman who taught Latin so well that I thought she could have learned it nowhere but from my own old professor.

I did not ask her outright, but began talking, in a rambling way, about her method. I found excuse to pronounce some Latin word, and now and then I would bring in a phrase which I knew the professor was fond of using.

The woman's face took on a puzzled expression, as if she were dimly remembering something. Then she began to look at me suspiciously, and a half-smile slowly dawned in her eyes.

At last I launched into one of the professor's funny stories, which I knew he must have repeated year after year. The evidence was complete. She waited for no more. She reached for my hand, and her face showed how much she had missed the old college associations in that lonely spot and how dear in her memory they still were.

"Tell me," she exclaimed, "are you a Michigan man?"

"I am," I confessed.

"So am I."—Youth's Companion.

TO FILL A LONG-FELT WANT

Way Suggested in Which Anatomists Could Get First Class Brains for Dissection.

We are sure that the deepest sympathy will be felt in all classes of society with the anatomists who are complaining that they are deficient in knowledge of the anatomy and structure of the human brain merely because of the difficulty of obtaining first-class brains for dissection. This long-felt want should certainly be supplied, but that the plan of the editor of American Medicine to urge intelligent men to will their brains to science is a sure way out of the difficulty may well be doubted.

We are afraid the scientific investigators will have an oversupply of very ordinary brains on their hands if the suggestion of American Medicine is carried out. A better way would be for the men of science to select the brains they think they want, on the hoof, so to speak, apply for the use of them when the time comes, and be content to wait. It would undoubtedly be esteemed a high honor for a man to be singled out this way, stimulating to the object himself and immensely gratifying to his family. It would be a new and precious order of merit.—New York Times.

FRIENDLY.

A regiment of soldiers were at camp and a young Scottish recruit was put on sentry outside the general's tent. In the morning the general rose, looked out of his tent and said to the young man in a stern and loud voice:

"Who are you?"

The young man turned round smartly and said:

"Fine! oo's yerself?"—Tit-Bits.

PATRIOTIC CAUTION.

"You have displayed very little interest in the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy."

The Moguls lost ground in the Cairo series, dropping the last two games to the visitors. With nearly half the team out of the playing Wednesday the Moguls suffered a bad defeat in the second game. Bailey and a borrowed catcher named Dunn were the local battery, and Carr and Taylor worked for Cairo. Bailey was hit hard. Carr, a new pitcher, pitched his first Kitty game and performed well.

Thursday's game was close, but the locals were again outplayed. The Moguls got more hits than the Egyptians, but Binkley kept plenty of space between them and was helped by two bad errors. Cairo's hits all came in one session and netted enough runs to win the game. Both Binkley and Johnson pitched fine ball.

KITTY MEWS

Pitcher McArthur is still making good.

Mc Arthur and Yon will twirl on July 4th.

One of Clarksville's pitchers is slated for release.

Yon will be on the slab for the Moguls, this afternoon.

Nig Langdon has resigned as manager of the Fulton team.

Never mind, watch us in those Clarksville games. Huhn will be here then.

Lay off, on the sixth, and go to Nashville to see the game we play Clarksville.

Rather a loose game Wednesday; but we can afford to lose one every now and then.

Let's get ready to capture next season's pennant. We already have this season's cinched.

Sickness seems to have hit our team hard, Huhn, Ireland, and Lyons were all out of the game at one time.

Secretary Abernathy is in receipt of letter from the Clarksville management which insures the game here on the afternoon of the fourth.

The Cairo club are a nice bunch of well behaved players and made a good impression here. The club has been much strengthened lately.

Thursday Umpire Beck put Nairn out of the game for protesting a decision, which he had a right to do as manager of the team. Nairn had caught Flood off first base and tagged him out. Beck called him safe and Nairn called from his place, "He was out, my foot was between his foot and the base." Beck ordered him to the bench, which he had no legal right to do unless a decision had been resisted. The team, already crippled, was further weakened at a critical period and the game of course made hopeless. Aside from some mistakes in calling balls and strikes, Beck's work here had been fairly satisfactory. He was evidently ashamed of his own break in treating so arbitrarily a manager who never violates the proprieties, for he called Flood out on a much closer decision a moment later, when McArthur took Nairn's place.

The Vincennes Capital, which is said to be President Gosnell's official mouthpiece, is crediting Hopkinsville with one more lost game than the Vincennes Sun or any other paper giving the reports. Up to June 27 Hopkinsville had lost only 10 games on the following dates: May 18 and 21 to Clarksville; May 30 to Paducah; June 2 to Vincennes; June 5 to Cairo; June 8 to Fulton; June 16 and 17 to McLeansboro; June 21 to Cairo; June 26 to Fulton. Since then two more losses on June 28, 29 to Cairo, a total of 12, out of 43 games played. As Mr. Gosnell is appointing the umpires for the League in the face of the announcement that impartial umpires would be named by a committee of Vincennes, Harrisburg and Paducah, the other teams should at least be assured of a fair count and a square deal after the games are played. What explanation, Mr. Gosnell, have you to offer for sending out an erroneous "official statement?"

The Tennessean has this to say of the coming game in Nashville: "Arrangements have been completed by the Hopkinsville and Clarksville baseball moguls to have a game pulled off in Sulphur Dell on Thursday, July 6. These clubs occupy first and second places respectively in the Kitty League, and the week's series will tell the tale of the pennant."

"Hopkinsville has now rather a tall lead on Clarksville, but Gene Curtiss and his charges are still confident. These teams will play eight games next week; a double header on Monday and Tuesday. On Thursday day they will play here in the park and a good crowd is expected.

"There are a number of local boys on the Clarksville team and they will draw many of their friends to the game. Monk Priest will probably pitch the game. Then Tige Garrett, another local boy, is playing first for Clarksville; Cooper, second baseman played with Vanderbilt during the past season; Gene Curtiss, manager, is owned by the Nashville club, and Otto Hirsig of this city is business manager and secretary and treasurer of the Clarksville club.

FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

BARKSDALE HAMLETT

CANDIDATE FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

Democratic Party Will Demand as Its Candidate a Man Who is a Practical and Experienced Educator.

BARKSDALE HAMLETT.

The first law of a democracy is the equalization of opportunity, which means the equitable distribution of intelligence through an adequate provision of educational equipment.

There can appear no virtue in the cry of a "Square Deal" so long as there exists a monopoly of intelligence, in a state where society is composed of individuals equally endowed by nature, yet to the great masses of whom all the light of human achievement and the social heritage of truth are denied.

Through a permanently organized campaign for educational improvement, readjusted ideals must be converted into practical realities. Thus will the latent energies of society be set free and opportunity will indeed knock at the door of every home in Kentucky.

His Platform.

I stand specifically for: A school free and accessible to every child in every rural district in Kentucky.

The improvement, sanitation and equipment of our rural schools, in accordance with the best modern standards.

Minimum seven months terms in every district.

A rational and effective compulsory attendance.

Practical course of study; agricultural and the domestic and mechanical arts and sciences.

Good roads and consolidation where practical.

Teachers of scholarship, character and personality.

County high schools, accessibly located in every county.

Improved facilities for the county superintendent's office.

Liberal enlargement and maintenance of our normal schools and state university as component parts of our public school system.

Readjustment of our system of finance to effect larger results on a more economic basis.

Personal leadership in the field on the part of the state superintendent.

Success Comes Only at End of Effort.

The subject of this sketch is a man of strong individuality, keen mentality, and a broad humanitarian spirit, whose interest in his fellow men is sincere, while his work is always actuated by a desire to advance the cause of education.

He worked in the tobacco patch for the means with which to educate himself, and succeeded to the extent that he was graduated from the Hamden-Sidney College of Virginia, with the Orator's medal of his class, at the age of nineteen. (—From E. Polk Johnson's History of Kentucky, in publication.)

Endorsed by Educators and Press.

An ex-president of the Kentucky Educational association, one of its five original incorporators, and up to the present time a member of its board of directors. An ex-president of the Fourth Congressional District association; an ex-state board examiner. Began his career as teacher in Lynnland Academy, Hardin county, taught in the rural district and normal schools, Larue county; principal of the graded schools of Corydon, and principal of the Henderson high school, from which he came to the superintendency of the Hopkinsville public schools.

The Man For the Place.

Editor T. C. Underwood, president of the Kentucky Press association, in the Hopkinsville News Era: "The Democratic party could look long and hard without finding a worthier or more competent candidate for the important office of state superintendent of schools. Mr. Hamlett is a man who has always 'made good,' and his career has been a lesson of energy, perseverance and honor. The state has no more enthusiastic and effective an advocate of education, nor the Democratic party a more loyal supporter."

A Builder of Schools.

In another issue he has this to say:

"When Prof. Hamlett came to Hopkinsville, from Henderson, six years ago, as superintendent of the public schools, there were but two buildings. With the completion this year of the high school buildings, there will be six, at a cost of $200,000, and the faculty of twenty-three teachers has been increased to forty-six. * * * He is an orator of ability and in demand as an after-dinner speaker * * * He is a popular member of the Elks, W. O. W. and other fraternal organizations. Prof. Hamlett is also superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, one of the largest in the state."

A Leader in Progressive Movement.

Prof. Hamlett, though only thirty-two years of age, has had thirteen years of successful experience as a teacher, rising by rapid promotions from teacher of a small county school at $30 a month to the splendid position he now holds at the head of the Hopkinsville school system, with more than 2,500 pupils and 40 teachers under his superintendency. Under his direction the schools have been improved from year to year, until they are more than ever the pride of one of the most progressive cities of the state.

A clean, young and progressive teacher, who has all the elements of success in his make-up he is a man in every way capable of making an officer of whom the whole state would justly be proud.

A leader in every progressive movement, Barksdale Hamlett will help to redeem Kentucky in 1911, and will be the next superintendent of Public Instruction.—(Mayor Chas. M. Meacham in the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.)

Master of School Problems.

From study and experience, he is master of the school problems of Kentucky and is particularly interested in the improvement of the common schools. The News knows no Democrat so thoroughly equipped at all points to make an ideal state superintendent, to advance the school interests proper of Kentucky, as Prof. Hamlett, and we would like to see him given the nomination without opposition.—(Elizabethtown News.)

Friend to the Rural Schools.

Prof. Hamlett is a strong, intelligent friend to the cause of education and believes in a square deal from the smallest district to the most intelligent city in the country. He is certainly a friend to the common schools, believes in seven months' terms, good roads and improved facilities for our schools in every respect.—(Mayfield Messenger.)

Strong Acquisition to the State Ticket.

Prof. Hamlett is in the foremost rank of Kentucky's educators and is in every way thoroughly qualified for the honor he seeks. We predict a successful candidacy for him and believe he will be a strong acquisition to the next state ticket.—(Madisonville Journal.)

Solid Backing of Home People.

Hamlett stands at the very top among the educators of our state. His friends predict with all candor that he will go into the fight with the solid backing not only of his home county, but the entire second congressional district.—(Daily Leader, Fulton.)

An Ideal Superintendent.

Barksdale Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, is the most advanced, intelligent and capable man in the state for superintendent of public instruction. He knows the needs of the state in all educational matters and would make an ideal state superintendent of public instruction.—(H. A. Summers in The Elizabethtown News.)

Prof. Hamlett possesses all the qualifications to make the state an ideal superintendent.—(Cadiz Record.)

The Man of the Hour.

As he is seen by the Ballard County Yeoman:

"The most casual reader can see in him the man of the hour, the man in whom all people of all parties can graciously unite and work for. His whole life, his every energy, his wonderful brain power are wrapped in this, the greatest work to be done in Kentucky. Though yet young, he is undoubtedly the best equipped man for this office the state has ever produced."

Determination and Success in His Face.

A young man who seems to have an ambition to accomplish something worth while in the educational field, and judging from that determined expression in his frank open countenance, he is going to succeed in the undertaking.—(Daily Bulletin, Maysville.)

A Worthy and Competent Leader.

His work at Hopkinsville is a monument to his ability as a school worker and organizer. He is abundantly qualified for the high office which he seeks, and his broad platform embraces the very best in educational endeavor. He is a worthy man in every respect, having worked himself up from a poor boy. Already he has pledged to him almost the solid vote of the teachers of the state, and all interested in the improvement and advancement of Kentucky's educational facilities, see in him a worthy and competent leader for the accomplishment of those things.—(Hartford Herald.)

Successful in Great Undertakings.

He is eminently qualified for the position which he seeks, and his record as an educator has been one of uninterrupted success. It is due to him that the handsome new Christian county and Hopkinsville high school is now a permanent reality, having been erected under the Sullivan law, at a cost of $100,000.—(The News-Democrat, Paducah.)

We believe as state superintendent of public instruction, he would be the right man in the right place.—(Calloway County Gazette.)

Mr. Hamlett believes in the equalization of opportunities, and his greatest wish in his work is to make opportunity knock at the home of every school child in Kentucky. We like Mr. Hamlett, and unlike most politicians he improves on acquaintance. In fact, he is not a politician, he is a school man who is well equipped for the office.—(The Breckinridge News, Cloverport.)

Making a Fine Race.

He is a man of infinite ability and capacity and stands upon a platform that neither trims nor tergiversates that begs no question nor evades a single issue. Mr. Hamlett, a man of individuality and ability, an educator and orator, is conceded to be the logical man for the place and is endorsed by leading educators and the press. Prof. Hamlett is out for the Democratic nomination and is making a vigorous canvass; he stands for progression and has the unqualified endorsement of his home people.

He has the credentials of a sturdy Democrat and bears the highest qualifications of an ideal superintendent.

Eminently qualified for the position sought, we believe him to be "the man" for superintendent of our state schools.

Prof. Hamlett is a strong friend to the cause of advanced education and believes in a square deal from the smallest district to the most progressive city in the country. He is a friend to the common schools of the state, is a clean, sound and energetic teacher who has all the elements of success in his make-up and is a man in every way capable of making an officer of whom the whole state would be justly proud.

It is hoped that Mr. Hamlett will have no opposition before the Democratic primary, for he is so thoroughly Democratic and clean in his views, so well equipped from all angles, that antagonism would be almost unjustifiable.

Mr. Hamlett has given a good account of himself, and his work at Hopkinsville is a monument to his ability as a school worker and organizer. He has made more than good there and can make good at the head of Kentucky's school affairs. If you want to know what Barksdale Hamlett stands for, just follow carefully the creed of the man as promulgated by himself.—(Henderson Journal.)

In the Lead.

Barksdale Hamlett, of Hopkinsville, continues in the lead for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Schools. His superior qualifications for the office give him a decided advantage over both his opponents, who are not active school men. The people of the State are awakening to the fact that to elect a lawyer to the agricultural department or a farmer to the superintendency of schools would be sheer folly, and they are lining up in this section at least for Mr. Hamlett mainly because he is an eminent, active educator and has made a success in his chosen line of work.—The Somerset
